THE GLORIOUS DEMOCRACY

Of New York Nominate a Winning Ticket.

SARATOGA, New York, September 24.—Reassembling, the committee on permanent organization, reported on commending that the temporary chairman Hon. George Raines, be made permanent chairman. This was agreed to with applause. The chairman of the committee had been unable to complete its report and requested to be allowed until 10 o'clock to tomorrow morning.

Senator Eccleson, of New York, moved that the convention proceed at once to the nomination of candidates for governor and lieutenant-governor. A sharp discussion followed, and a motion to adjourn was lost, ayes 148, noes 231. This vote was considered significant as a test of Governor Hill's strength in the convention.

The motion to proceed to the nomination for governor, then carried and J. E. O'Connor, of Chemung, placed in nomination Governor Hill. The name was received with wild yells and cries of, "He's our next governor." Mr. O'Connor spoke briefly and was followed by others. Col. J. R. Fellows, of New York, nominated Abram S. Hewitt.

A ballot was then taken. The county Democrats voted for Mr. Hewitt, who also got a few other scattering votes. The result was announced as follows: Total votes cast 380; necessary for choice 191; Hill 338; Hewitt 33; Slocum 8; Flower 1. The result was received with great demonstrations of applause and shortly after midnight, the convention adjourned, till 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

David B. Hill, of Elmira, the Democratic candidate for governor of New York, was born in Havana, Schuyler, then Chemung, county, on August 29th, 1844, and was educated at the academy in that town. In 1870 he was elected to the state assembly and in 1871 he was re-elected. Mr. Hill served one term as alderman of Elmira. At the expiration of the term in 1882, he was elected mayor of the city. In September, 1882, he was nominated for lieutenant governor on the Democratic state ticket and was elected at the election in November. Governor Cleveland's election to the presidency, in 1884, raised Mr. Hill to the governorship. For a number of years Mr. Hill was proprietor of the Elmira Gazette. The governor is a bachelor. In the election of 1882, when Mr. Hill was chosen lieutenant governor, his majority was 196,781, being 40,000 larger than that of his chief.

The Platform Made To-day.

SARATOGA, Sept. 25.—Before the report of the committee on resolutions was read Chairman Raines asked unanimous consent for the presentation of a special resolution. It was granted and General Roger A. Pryor read the following:

Resolved, That with profound sorrow the democracy of the state of New York lament the death of the inflexible patriot and invincible soldier, Ulysses S. Grant, (applause) of whose illustrious career they recognize the fitting crown and consummation in his dying invocation of peace and good will between the heroes he led and the heroes he conquered. (Applause.)

The resolution was unanimously adopted, every delegate rising to his feet. The platform was then read. It congratulates the people of the whole union upon the election and inauguration of Grover Cleveland as president of the United States. It commends the tone of his inaugural address and the significant public recognition in the selection of his cabinet advisers of the fact that the union of these thirty-eight indestructible states is at last thoroughly re-established. His firm, considerate and conscientious conduct has proven the falsity of the predictions of a national calamity with which his enemies and the enemies of the democratic party endeavored to alarm the public during the canvass. It tenders him hearty approbation of the public policy which has governed his official actions, especially the effort he has made to eradicate corruption and incompetency from the public service by the appointment of honest and capable democrats in order that there shall be a thorough and wholesome reform of the methods condemned by the people who confided to him the administration of his high official trust.

The platform approves the administration of the state government by Governor Hill. Their efforts have justly commended them to the confidence of the people.

It reaffirms the national platforms of 1876, 1880 and 1884 in regard to the necessity of reforming the civil service but it condemns the actual administration of the existing civil service law as the same has been executed by the republican party, who have abused its provisions for the purpose of keeping republicans in office. It asks that the commission at Washington be reorganized so a majority may be in sympathy with the administration. That both parties be fairly represented on the examining board. That the present list of persons eligible for appointment be annulled.

Care should be taken that the constitutional power of the executive and heads of departments to make appointments shall not be impaired and that the machinery, whatever it may be, for the testing of eligible candidates, shall not prostitute to unworthy purposes.

At this point Chairman Herick said, "I am requested to state that this provision was adopted by a majority of this committee, but the minority, in the interest of harmony, decide to make no minority report."

The platform declared against a further coinage of silver and demands the repeal of the act under which the compulsory coinage of silver goes on. It will welcome any practical measure of agreement with other nations by which the value between gold and silver may be less fluctuating.

It calls for a revision of the tariff upon the principles laid down in the national platform; opposes a contract of convict labor; favors the prohibition of children under fourteen years from working in factories; favors ten hours a days work for women in manufactories.

It favors giving priority of certification and employment under the civil service law to honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the last war; opposes all sumptuary and other laws that interfere with personal liberty and favors such excise laws as shall be just to all. The platform was adopted.

THE TICKET COMPLETED.

Roswell P. Flower was nominated for lieutenant governor; Frederick Cook was nominated for secretary of state; A. A. Chapin, the present incumbent, for comptroller; Dennis O'Brien, the present attorney general was unanimously renominated; Lawrence J. Fitzgerald, of Cortland, was nominated for state treasurer by acclamation, and Nathan Sweet, of Albany, for state engineer and surveyor. The convention then adjourned sine die.

HE WILL RUN. ALBANY, N. Y., September 24.—General Carr, the Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, about whose acceptance there was some doubt, in view of his public declaration, has decided to accept the nomination.

Slightly Disfigured.

The Gazette should train its staff to more unanimity of opinion. On one page it says: "Should convictions continue long at the present rate, Allen county will have more prisoners in the Michigan City penitentiary than any other county in the state." In another page it arraigns Mayor Muhler for not capturing the thieves who burglarized Kiel Bro.'s store and adds: "Crime of all kind is playing a high hand in our city. Residence and business houses are visited almost nightly by thieves." Of course the Gazette will experience some delicacy at reconciling these conflicting paragraphs, and they lead to show what attention that sort of stuff merits.

The Iron Interest.

Whether we should finally decide on protection or free trade in iron may make considerable difference to the capitalists and iron workers. To the person who suffers from debility and languor the most important question is as to the proper amount of iron in the blood. If this is not present there will be misery, faintness, weakness and wretchedness. The only reliable iron preparation for the blood is Brown's Iron Bitters, which enriches, strengthens and renews the whole system. Every reputable druggist keeps this prince of tonics, and sells it at a dollar a bottle.

MORE WARLIKE

The Roumelia Question is Hourly Becoming.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 25.—The feeling in St. Petersburg regarding the Roumelia question is hourly becoming more warlike. The sympathy of the masses is strongly with the Bulgarians. It is stated the czar has telegraphed the minister of war to prepare plans for a campaign in the event of the opening of hostilities between Bulgaria and Turkey, as he is determined to support Prince Alexander's scheme of unity between Bulgaria and Roumelia. A prominent Russian general said Russia would declare war against Turkey the moment the porte attacked Bulgaria, and added that the czar is most emphatic in his resolution to support Bulgaria.

AN OMINIOUS LETTER—"SHOOT THE CRANK."

A rather ominous letter has been received by the president. It calls upon him to resign by October 3rd. The writer signs himself "Henry N. Kirp, president elect of the United States, Phil. Dr. M. D., Professor of Military and Civil Jurisprudence, National Military Home, Virginia." He addresses the president as "Grover Cleveland acting president," and says, "your functions are no longer required. All acts made by you after October 3d, will be null and void."

OUR OWN JOE.

Ex-Senator Joseph E. McDonald arrived here to-day.

Centennial Conference.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., September, 24.—The centennial temperance conference assembled this morning in St. Georges Hall, Miss Frances E. Willard, in the chair. Several short papers were read by the delegates present. Remarks were made by J. N. Stearns, corresponding secretary, Hon. S. D. Hastings, of Wisconsin, Mrs. C. B. Buell, Geo. R. Alden, Temple.

The report of the order of "Sons of Temperance," showed 250,000 persons been initiated into membership and the order had raised $8,450,000 for temperance purposes. Father Cleary was invited to address the conference on behalf of the Catholic total abstinence union.

Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, of Iowa, addressed the conference on the question of constitutional prohibition. Rev. D. Lowry, who represented the Cincinnati conference of the M. E. church, made a few remarks and said his conference was a temperance and prohibition one.

Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, next addressed the conference. His address led to a debate tending somewhat toward political feeling; whereupon a resolution was adopted ruling out all subjects but those for which the conference met. The conference then adjourned.

The Mystery Solved.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. PITTSBURG, Pa., September 24.—The mystery surrounding the death of Clara Huff, whose mutilated remains were found in a ravine near here, yesterday, was partially cleared to-day, by the arrest of two boys named James Winans and John Cromer. Neither of them is over sixteen years of age. A thorough investigation was initiated to-day and the suspicious actions of the boys led to their arrest. They vigorously protested their innocence, but finally confessed that the murderer was a companion of about the same age. They stated that he made a criminal assault on Miss Hoff, but she resisted him so strongly that he was compelled to shoot her to get away. The boys say they were fully a half mile from the scene, but heard the pistol shots and the girl scream several times. The name of the young man is withheld by the police, who have a number of clues which will likely lead to his arrest. The excitement over the brutal murder has not yet subsided.

"To be or not to be that is the question." This may be so, but there should be no question as to whether or not to rub when you have rheumatism. Do it at once with St. Jacobs Oil. It conquers pain.

A BIG LEAKAGE.

The New York Custom House Rascalities to be Looked Into Very Promptly.

Probabilities that Merchants Will Have to Make Good Thousands of Dollars.

Judge Fleming, of New Mexico, to Resign—Prairie Fires Raging Fiercely.

SPECIAL AGENTS

Will Look After Alleged Custom House Rascalities.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Secretary Manning has appointed agents to look into the alleged rascalities in the under valuation of imported goods. Three large importing houses of this city lately paid to the government more than $120,000 each on reappraisements of goods. They had been accused of under valuing. It is probable that a dozen or fifteen New York firms will be pressed to pay the United States treasury money which the government agents believe should be originally paid in honest duties. These sums will aggregate about $1,000,000. A widely signed petition is now in circulation among New York importers asking congress to substitute a specific tariff for existing ad valorem rate which is subject to the interpretation of the special agents.

Going to Resign.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 25.—It is learned here that United States territorial judge, Wm. B. Fleming, chief justice of New Mexico, will probably resign his office within a few days. Judge Fleming is now in Kentucky, his former home, endeavoring to recover from a serious illness with but little hope.

Prairie Fires Burning Every-Thing.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. BRAINERD, Minn., Sept. 25.—Dr. A. T. Graves heard from his farm in Barnes county, Dakota, that the buildings, crops and everything on the farm had been burned and the fire was sweeping the prairies. The fire breaks are no protection.

An Investigation Ordered.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. PORTLAND, Oregon, Sept. 25.—A large Chinese firm in this city has received a dispatch from Lewistown, Idaho, stating that agents have been sent over to Pierce City to investigate the reported hanging of five Chinamen there. It is said one of the men hanged was a wealthy Chinese merchant, named Govenan, who had just closed his business and was about to return to China.

Big Storm.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. HALIFAX, N. S., September 24.—The brigantine and the tug Alida were disabled by the storm yesterday. Later a total loss. The Norwegian bark Tordenskjold, which recently went ashore on Meagher's beach is completely broken up. The new Inter-Colonial railway running to Dartmouth had the road bed completely washed out in several places. The schooner J. W. Arnold, was blown against a large new bridge which carried away the two middle spans. The vessel sustained serious damages.

MEXICAN WOMEN.

Their Customs and Duties, Married and Single.

HARDY IN CHARACTER.

How the High Class Male Relatives Protect the Females.

TWELVE VENERABLE MOTHERS.

[Special Correspondence.]

MEXICO CITY, MEXICO.—Tourists and newspaper correspondents, who, during their brief visit to Mexico had had limited opportunities for seeing the domestic life of the higher class, have conveyed to our countrymen and to Europeans the idea that Mexican ladies of even the most aristocratic families are extremely ignorant. This is a most egregious blunder. During the past twenty-five or thirty years it has been customary here to engage accomplished foreign governesses and able native tutors for young girls, therefore the ladies of aristocratic families are good linguists, excellent musicians and are on a par with the corresponding class in Spain and France. It is true they never attempt a "classic course," or dream of imitating our Bostonian damsels in scientific studies; nevertheless, in all those accomplishments which render social intercourse agreeable and home life delightful they are quite equal to American and English women.

If a Mexican lady is widowed and has no means, a family council is held, her male relatives or those of her deceased husband charge themselves with the education of her sons, and provision is made for her and her daughters. Even if the widow and young ladies should be accomplished, they are not expected to work for their bread, and the aid tendered them is calmly accepted as a hereditary right. On the contrary, if a widowed mother is wealthy she cannot be independent. Custom exacts that the care of her property and education of her sons shall be relegated to male relatives, and, unless she is really an old woman with adult children, she must either reside with her kindred or keep some staid, matronly person in her household by way of protection against criticism or scandal.

Mexican gentlemen are so thoroughly imbued with this idea of womanly helplessness that they do not seem to regard the charge of a bereaved family as an unusual or unjust burden, but accept all the duties it involves as real and sacred obligations. One strong proof of the chivalric nature of Mexican gentlemen is that the estates of widows and orphans are almost invariably honestly administered.

One sees many newspaper comments on "the languor and idleness of Mexican ladies." That charge may be made against those who inhabit the "Tierra caliente," or tropic regions, but as regards the ladies of the cities in the "Tierra templada," or high plateau, it is unjust. In this capital they pay even more attention to domestic affairs than wealthy American ladies usually do, because society makes fewer demands upon their time and fashion does not oblige them to spend their summers in gay watering places, or winters in Europe. Domestic life in Mexico is charmingly simple and really worth imitation, except in one respect, rarely do ladies here suckle their infants. This sacred duty of motherhood is usually delegated to Indian nurses. For this omission the physicians are chiefly responsible, because they assure their aristocratic patients that this drain upon their systems is too severe, etc.

As a general rule the ladies of Mexico are gentle, artless and amiable. A "professional beauty" or "married belle" is not tolerated; either would soon be ostracized as an improper character.

Flirtations, such as our belles indulge in, are not permitted here. These black-eyed señoritas have no other privilege than such intelligence as may be communicated to their gallants by expressive glances, or fan manoeuvres during a promenade and the liberty of dancing with "properly presented" young men at balls and parties. Fortunately however, the slow, dreamy "Habanero" and similar dances afford opportunities for the expression of tender sentiments and the utterance of "airy nothings." All Mexican mothers carefully chaperone their daughters until they are given away at the altar.

The scholastic course of a young Mexican girl of aristocratic family is usually "finished" by the time she is fifteen or sixteen years old, then her mother or some other matronly relative begins to instruct her in those domestic duties which marriage usually entails, she is taught to prepare delicacies for the sick and to make desserts or other dainty dishes, and by the way of practice has for a time the entire management of her father's household, orders all the provisions consumed, pays the servants, provides rations for the carriage horses, looks over the coachman's bill for shoeing, etc., in a word keeps an account of all the domestic expenditures and is thus prepared to take charge of a house of her own. This domestic training is absolutely necessary, because the day a Mexican girl marries, whether she be rich or poor, she goes to a home of her own. It is customary here for the bridegroom to furnish the house and also the greater part of the bride's trousseau.

Perhaps the most usefully or practically educated women in Mexico are the daughters of Army officers, many of whom, when orphaned, become teachers, or do something to eke out the pensions settled upon them by the Government.

The class of women most to be pitied in this country are what we may term "the third" in the social scale. Notwithstanding the opportunities afforded them in the public or national schools they are sadly deficient in book knowledge. The ignorant parents of that rank have some ambition with regard to the education of their sons, but deem reading, writing and embroidery "sufficient for girls," and therefore encourage their daughters to devote the greater part of their school life to sewing, embroidery and the manufacture of artificial flowers—the latter accomplishment ment seems like a solemn farce in this land of flowers. The introduction of even cheap sewing machines has not yet emancipated these young girls from the toil of stitching, braiding and fine canvas work. The "Profesoras" in some of the schools occasionally exhibit a specimen of embroidery that almost equals goblin tapestry, yet one shudders to think of the years a pupil has bent over it, injuring her eyes, curving her spine and dwarfing her mind. When one of these victims of ignorance, or these slaves of the needle attains womanhood she is weak, inept, takes no interest in looks, is usually bigoted and superstitious, scarcely understands even the geographical position of her country, in fact, all beyond its limits is to her chaos. As girls of this third class are pitifully helpless, their future necessarily depends upon marriage; at thirty they are broken down by the pangs and cares of maternity; at forty they are old women, and if they drag on until fifty are usually decrepit. Fortunately, however, a few of this rank have begun to take advantage of the gratuitous course of musical instruction their daughters can have in the Government conservatory, and the good effects of contact with brighter minds is already apparent.

The present administration is making great improvements in the system of popular education and the great middle classes of girls will soon reap the benefits of wiser methods of instruction.

The most hardy, healthy and the best formed females in this Republic are the civilized Indian women. Owing to their outdoor life and laborious habits they are strong and active at fifty and sixty years of age. These good, docile creatures make faithful household servants and work well in gardens or fields. As a class they are virtuous and industrious, in fact superior to the Peons, because, from the Spanish Conquest to this day, they have been obliged to labor constantly. In the first place when Cortez and the succeeding viceroy have been to restore the ruined city of Tenochtitlan, repair the causeways, clear out the canals and erect new buildings, even when they commenced work in the mineral districts, they forced the captive Aztecs to do all the manual labor, and so great was the injustice, so contemptible the avarice of the Spanish conquerors, that they absolutely refused to furnish food for their victims. Therefore the wives and daughters of those unfortunate were obliged to till their lands and earn food to sustain all who labored for the Viceroyal Government in the city or mines. This tyranny continued till some noble, philanthropic priests, among others the good La Casas, and the eminently just Padre Gante, personally appealed to the Spanish monarchs for justice toward the conquered Aztecs. Subsequently the viceroys employed the semi-civilized Indians to subdue the various hordes of savages, and even now all the privates in the Mexican army, numbering forty-one thousand, are Indians. These soldiers, as a general rule, become so indolent and demoralized by camp and barracks life that when they are discharged from Government service they are unwilling to work on plantations or keep steadily at any manual labor. The result is that their wives or daughters toil for them, and also have to provide for their helpless little ones.

The Federal Government permits a limited number of married Indian women of good repute to accompany each regiment to cook and wash for the soldiers; these women are regularly enrolled as "Soldaderas" and bear the fatigues of camp life or long marches admirably.

The Soldaderas are not stupid, but seem to entertain quite correct ideas of the existing state of affairs. For example: During the usurpation of Maximilian, when European forces were in possession of Mexico City and the constitutional President, Juarez, with his cabinet ministers and a limited military guard, were trying to make their way to Pass del Norte, he and his counselors were one day holding a conference in a forest, where Juarez was seated on a rock and the statesmen grouped about him on stumps or logs, while the military escort kept guard. The old poet, Guilleriso Prieto, then a member of the cabinet, rose just in the act of stating his opinion on a momentous subject when the solemn concourse was interrupted by shouts of laughter intermingled with oaths and menaces, expressed in coarse, excellent French and ungrammatical Spanish.

All sprang to their feet and the captain of the guard, followed by his men, rushed toward the quarter from which the sound came. Presently he returned with four Soldaderas who bore on their shoulders a Frenchman whom they had met, and, believing him to be a spy, had with great cunning and sweet flatteries captured, bound hand and foot with their robes or long scarves and carried half a league. When the women deposited their prisoner at the feet of the President, the older Soldaderas excused herself for the failure of her proposed foraging expedition, saying: "Senior Presidente, we thought this Frenchman might have papers that your Excellency and the honorable ministers would prize more than a fat turkey or a young pig." True enough, on the person of the spy was found a communication from the commander-in-chief of the Imperial force to the commander of a neighboring garrison, stating that Juarez and certain prominent officers would probably pass that vicinity. This intelligence was accompanied by the formal order: Shoot every Mexican rebel taken in arms against the Imperial Government of His Majesty, Maximilian First. The Vandimera, or Mexican vegetable vender, is a familiar figure on the streets of a Mexican city, and with their babies strapped to their backs, their vegetable baskets in their hands, their sandalled feet and short dress, they present a picture of the lower grade of life utterly unfamiliar to New York or Boston.

MEXICAN PRIVATE DWELLING

The Aguador, or carrier of water, is another familiar figure seen in Mexican cities, and a very queer figure he cuts with his water jug strapped upon his shoulders, the strap being fastened over the cap in front, and supplemented by a second strap fastened over the first, which holds the smaller jug in front from which the supply is doled out to his customers. These water carriers are numbered, as are policemen in America, and their dress would create surprise if seen on Broadway with its sleeveless long coat or blouse, hanging loosely over them, and trousers rolled up at the bottom to show the white garment which reaches to the feet beneath.

As a class the Mexicans live in adobe houses, especially in the lower class, but some of them are well built and rather attractive. A Mexican residence of the better class of which a picture is presented, looks somewhat like a fort, being solidly built, low, and covering considerable ground in area. The principal corner is decorated with carved work and a niche is frequently erected and a statue placed inside surrounded with handsome carving and masonry.

The poor Aztecs, or Indians, live in somewhat different style and appear content with different stone or adobe huts, the roofs of which are covered with cheap material similar to straw. There are many of these huts along the canal, especially near the "floating islands" which, by the way, are now stationary.

On Christmas eve a Mexican lady asked the writer if she would like to see some Indian or Aztec dances, and of course the proposition was eagerly accepted. Senora S. told her servants, twelve in number, that they should gratify "la Senora Americana" and asked them to go to the patio. All cheerfully obeyed, and after dancing the mod ra "Jarabe," "La Paloma" etc., etc., they executed some figures that were slow, majestic and graceful, singing by way of accompaniment sad, sweet airs, that seemed like invocations to some dread power. Senora S. told me these were the identical "religious dances" of the time of Montezuma and that they are still in vogue among some of the uncivilized mountain tribes, who to this day pay equal homage to the "Black Serpent" and to Mary the Mother from this city there is an Indian settlement or "Pueblo" in which the "venerable mothers" form half of the patriarchal "Council of Twelve" who rule the community. The patriarchal dignity, however, is only conferred on those who have raised large families, have been true wives, devoted mothers and kind neighbors. When it becomes necessary to send a young Indian out into the world, a council is held, the proposed exodus fully discussed and the youth is advised to do credit to his Pueblo by being honest, truthful and industrious. Whenever this voluntary exile communicates with his people, the messages to the "dear old fathers and mothers" are almost as tender as those to his blood-kindred.

Human nature requires change for its recreation. "Variety is charming," not only because it is variety, but because continuous effort in one direction produces lassitude, staleness, and decrease of power.

The little steamer "Daisy" that was lately put on Mine Lake, in Steuben county, has been purchased by Warsaw parties and moved to the lake at that place. The proprietors of Cedar Beach hotel will have a much larger boat built for next season.

The Peru Sentinel thus hits Gert Shober in the ribs: "The Fort Wayne band sent down a man yesterday to spy out the land, and he became discouraged at the prospect of contending against good bands and went home with sorrow, and Fort Wayne was not represented in the parade."

Supt. P. S. O'Rourke writes a card to the Steuben Republican denying that he is a "free trader." He says he is for a "revenue tariff or a tariff for revenue only." The Angola Herald announces Mr. O'Rourke's candidacy for congress and styles him "Judge P. S. O'Rourke, the friend of the laboring man."

The Elkhart Sentinel gives Judge Lowry quite a complimentary notice and styles him of the old school Jeffersonian democracy. It adds: "Judge Lowry carries his years easily and well. Little more than gray hairs would be noticed as distinguishing his appearance from what it was at the time he left this county, eighteen or more years ago. Mentally and physically he seems in his prime."

Al. Quealy, of this city, attended the Logansport fair.

Dietrich Politz and Doretta Foellinger have been licensed to wed.

"Siberia" at the Temple opera house to-night. This is the greatest spectacular play on the road and no mistake about it.

John McClure was arraigned yesterday in the circuit court for selling diseased meat. The name of the purchaser was not in the affidavit and the case was dismissed.

Wednesday night, at the residence of Col. Thomas Toomey, on Oak street, there was a big party given in honor of the birthday of one of Mr. Toomey's daughters.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL are as follows: Warmer, generally fair weather, southwesterly winds.

Miss May Hengstler and Miss Emma Scheninger, two charming young ladies who have been visiting here for the past week, will return to their homes at Defiance, O., this evening.

Water Works Inspector Iten is taking out the old wooden boxes of the water mains on the street corners and is replacing them with iron ones. This is the reason he is hauling the fresh earth on the street corners.

Ex-Mayor Baker, of Portland, Ind., is here to consult Hon. R. C. Bell relative to the case of ex-Treasurer Mason, who defaulted while in office. His trial comes up next week. Mr. George D. Crane is counsel in the case, having audited Mason's accounts.

"Rev. L. P. Rose, of Indianapolis, spent the Sunday in Fort Wayne, preaching the 15th anniversary sermon for the Congregational church. Monday he was in Angola on his way to Orland. He will spend about a week in his work in this part of the state and return to Indianapolis early next week," says the Steuben Republican.

Hon. Hugh McCulloch writes that he is willing to relinquish his claim to the old Broadway cemetery, that the city may convert it into a public park. He has so written his son, Hon. Charles McCulloch, and THE SENTINEL believes our fellow townsmen will shortly set an example worthy of imitation. The spot will be fixed up prettily and styled "McCulloch's Park."

There was a soldiers reunion at Angola last week. Lieut. Gov. Manson, and Col. I. B. McDonald, were present and the Steuben Republican has this gossip: "Captains Scott Swan and James Harper, of Fort Wayne, were among those from a distance who attended the soldiers picnic last Saturday. Gen. M. D. Manson was the guest of Dr. G. W. McConnell, Col. Zollinger, of W. H. Cole and Asst. Adj't Gen. Thomas Sullivan, of B. F. Dawson, over Sunday."

On Tuesday morning Mr. Emmet Powers' young stallion trotted a mile in 2:31. With careful driving and handling Mr. Powers expects to lower the stallion's time to 2:25.

At the meeting of the fair association yesterday evening it was decided to pay all premiums in full. The money can be had at any time after to-day by calling on the secretary, at the city clerk's office.

Mrs. Frank Falker and Miss Josie Albert gave an exceedingly pleasant reception at the dancing academy last night. Prof. Mahler was master of ceremonies and introduced some very pretty figures.

Prof. Bienenke's orchestra furnished music for the gay assembly.

Mr. Frank Mensch, of the Adams Express company, has been appointed a mail carrier to take effect Oct. 1. Mr. Mensch is a brother of Ex-Mail Carrier Mensch. Frank, however, has been a life long, staunch democrat and almost every merchant in the city signed a paper asking Mr. Kaough to appoint him. He has a thorough knowledge of the city and is much of a gentleman, trustworthy and honorable.

The telephone litigation for the purpose of testing the new law has now reached a stage when a decision by the lower courts may soon be expected. There are two cases, one a civil suit and the other a criminal procedure. The former is the method adopted by the Indianapolis citizens' committee, and regarded by them as offering opportunity for the fairest test. While on the other hand, the company has caused the institution of proceedings against itself under the criminal law. There will be accordingly separate decisions on the questions involved, both in the lower and in the supreme courts.

MUST STEP DOWN.

The Resignation of Col. Tom Sullivan, the Transfer Agent, Asked for His Successor to be A.

Wolf.

There is a flutter in political circles to-day and the reason the unusual activity is that Congressman Robert Lowry has asked Col. Tom Sullivan to hand in his resignation as transfer agent, at the south depot. The information comes from Capt. Lewis, the night transfer agent, who will also be asked to step down in a few days, and he pleasantly says so. Sullivan's successor is to be Ex-Councilman Abraham Wolf. The change at the depot would have been made long ago, but the law provides that Sullivan's successor may by one of the railroad mail agents. Judge Lowry, it is presumed, has received assurances of Wolf's acceptability, hence the change. It is understood that Tom Mannix will succeed Capt. Lewis. The day agent gets $1,400 a year and the night agent $1,000. This is the program to-day, but who can tell what a night will bring forth.

Dr. Peters Again.

"Dr. Peters, who now languishes in the Cass county jail for stealing a case of surgical instruments from Dr. Fitch, has furnished the Logansport Pharos with a lengthy communication in which he emphatically denies having been guilty of any misdemeanor at Fort Wayne, as charged by THE SENTINEL of that city, and published in the Pharos of yesterday. The doctor states that the crime for which he is now in jail was committed while under the influence of liquor, and asserts in strong terms that it would not have happened had he been sober. He refers to prominent citizens of this city, Fort Wayne, Huntington and Delphi to prove his high standing as a physician and gentleman. It appears that for years whisky has had the best of Mr. Peters."

WICKLIFFE-CLARK

The Flight of the Couple Assumes A Premeditated Aspect—

Mrs. Wickliffe in the City.

County Treasurer John Dalman, who has steadily refused to entertain the belief that M. S. Wickliffe did wrong, drove to Zanesville yesterday and broke the news to Mrs. Wickliffe. The terrible tidings almost killed the poor woman and the spectacle of the two little, curly headed boys, aged five and seven, clinging to her skirts and crying, "Mamma, won't papa never come back" would move any one to tears. Mrs. Wickliffe came to the city this morning to strive to save enough property to support herself and little ones. It dawned on her now that all was not right. Her husband hastened her from the city last week and accompanied her to Zanesville. She complained at the haste but he rudely ordered her to get ready. At Zanesville he bade his children good bye and said "be good boys." He asked his wife if she needed any money, and pulling out a huge roll of bills from his pocket, gave her a few dollars. Of late he has absented himself from home at night, the last time with a Wells county man. Wife-like, she would believe nothing wrong, but now in tears realizes she has been abandoned.

It also transpires he did not pay his brother George $750 as the latter at first stated. Just what he did with the $700 notes on his Zanesville property is not known, but a $600 mortgage appears against his house and lot in this city. This property he secretly deeded to his brother some time ago, but as the document was not recorded in the specified time, creditors have an equal claim against it. Glancing the elopement all over it looks like a premeditated affair and Mr. Dalman and Mrs. Wickliffe incline to the belief. Nothing has been heard of Wickliffe or Mrs. Clark. Steve Wickliffe returned home this afternoon. He left his brother this morning at St. Louis. He says Mike acted strangely and remained away from him at night. He has been drinking and Steve thinks there is a woman in the case, although he had not seen Mrs. Clark with him at all.

OVER THE ROAD.

Joe Manier Sent to Prison for Four and a Half Years for Burglary.

Joe Manier was tried yesterday on the charge of attempting to burglarize the home of Theodore Nieman and also with shooting that gentleman. The state made a strong case and, indeed, Judge Sinclair and Clary Edsall made a splendid defense for the crook, whose sisters and others testified on his behalf. The jury went out at 6 o'clock and at 3 o'clock this morning returned a sealed verdict. When the paper was read this morning it declared Manier guilty and sentenced him to four years and a half in the prison north. Manier, who is a smooth faced young man, cried like a child and moved every one to pity. Joe was something of a prize fighter and engaged in several local mills. His companions were bad and to their influence and whisky he can attribute his downfall. He threatens the life of Prosecutor Dawson, but that stern, relentless officer does not waver. Joe's family are prostrated by the young man's downfall and his numerous lady admirers called to sympathize with him to-day.

THE BABIES IN THE CRADLE.

Babies are very little things, yet they leave great gaps of loneliness behind them when they die. Mothers save your little ones by giving them Parker's Tonic when they show signs of being unwell. This famous remedy is so pleasant that any infant will take it, and it will soon quiet and remove their aches and pains.

Miss Sloat will be at the Aveline house, Monday, Sept. 28. She writes that while in Paris she found goods greatly reduced in price and far more beautiful than ever before. Sept-23-1f

He is not Dead.

Supt. P. S. O'Rourke writes a card to the Stenlen Republican denying that he is a "free trader." He says he is for a "revenue tariff or a tariff for revenue only." The Angola Herald announces Mr. O'Rourke's candidacy for congress and styles him "Judge P. S. O'Rourke, the friend of the laboring man."
The Elkhart Sentinel gives Judge Lowry quite a complimentary notice and styles him of the old school Jeffersonian democracy. It adds: "Judge Lowry carries his years easily and well. Little more than gray hairs would be noticed as distinguishing his appearance from what it was at the time he left this county, eighteen or more years ago. Mentally and physically he seems in his prime."

He has a thorough knowledge of the city and is much of a gentleman, trustworthy and bon-vivable.
The telephone litigation for the purpose of testing the new law has now reached a stage when a decision by the lower courts may soon be expected. There are two cases, one a civil suit and the other a criminal procedure. The former is the method adopted by the Indianapolis citizens' committee, and regarded by them as offering opportunity for the fairest test. While on the other hand, the company has caused the institution of proceedings against itself under the criminal law. There will be accordingly separate decisions on the questions involved, both in the lower and in the supreme courts.

WICKLIFFE-CLARK
The Flight of the Couple Assumes a Premeditated Aspect.
Mrs. Wickliffe in the City.
County Treasurer John Dalman, who has steadily refused to entertain the belief that M. H. Wickliffe did wrong, drove to Zanesville yesterday and broke the news to Mrs. Wickliffe. The terrible tidings almost killed the poor woman and the spectacle of a little, curly headed boy, aged five and seven, clinging to her skirts and crying, "Mamma, won't papa never come back" would move any one to tears. Mrs. Wickliffe came to the city this morning to strive to save enough property to support herself and little ones. It dawns on her now that all was not right. Her husband hastened her from the city last week and accompanied her to Zanesville. She complained at the haste but he rudely ordered her to get ready. At Zanesville he bade his children good bye and said "be good boys." He asked his wife if she needed any money, and pulling out a huge roll of bills from his pocket, gave her a few dollars. Of late he has absented himself from home at night, the last time with a Wells county man. Wife-like, she would believe nothing wrong, but now in tears realizes she has been abandoned.
It also transpires he did not pay his brother George ($750) as the latter at first stated. Just what he did with the $700 notes on his Zanesville property is not known, but a $200 mortgage appears against his house and lot in this city. This property he secretly deeded to his brother some time ago, but as the document was not recorded in the specified time, creditors have an equal claim against it. Glancing the eye over all over it looks like a premeditated affair and Mr. Dalman and Mrs. Wickliffe incline to the belief. Nothing has been heard of Wickliffe or Mrs. Clark.
Steve Wickliffe returned home this afternoon. He left his brother this morning at St. Louis. He says Mike acted strangely and remained away from him at night. He has been drinking and Steve thinks there is a woman in the case, although he had not seen Mrs. Clark with him at all.
OVER THE ROAD.
Joe Manier Sent to Prison for Four and a Half Years for Burglary.
Joe Manier was tried yesterday on the charge of attempting to burglarize the home of Theodore Nieman and also with shooting that gentleman. The state made a strong case and, indeed, Judge Sinselar and Chas. Eissel made a splendid defense for the crook, whose sisters and others testified on his behalf. The jury went out at 6 o'clock and at 3 o'clock this morning returned a verdict. When the paper was read this morning it declared Manier guilty and sentenced him to four years and a half in the prison north. Manier, who is a smooth faced young man, cried like a child and moved every one to pity. Joe was something of a prize fighter and engaged in several local mills.
